(International News Service.)
New York, Jan. 25.—Wall Street evinced a desire today to make a clean breast of its stock transactions during the week the leak in President Wilson's peace note is said to have sprung. Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the house leak committee, announced that more than a dozen brokers have complied with the committee's demand and placed their books at his disposal.

DEMOCRATS MEET IN CAUCUS TONIGHT TO ARRANGE PLAN SPEED CONGRESS

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO COMPLETE LEGISLATION DESIRED BY PRESIDENT WITHOUT AN EXTRA SESSION.

RAILROAD LAWS ARE HITCH

COMMITTEE TRYING TO REACH A COMPROMISE TO PLEASE LABOR. YET MAKE STRIKES IMPOSSIBLE. SOLONS HAVE PET BILLS

(International News Service.)
Washington, Jan. 25.—The democratic senate caucus called for tonight to ratify the steering committee's tentative legislative program, promises to develop into a free-for-all fight.

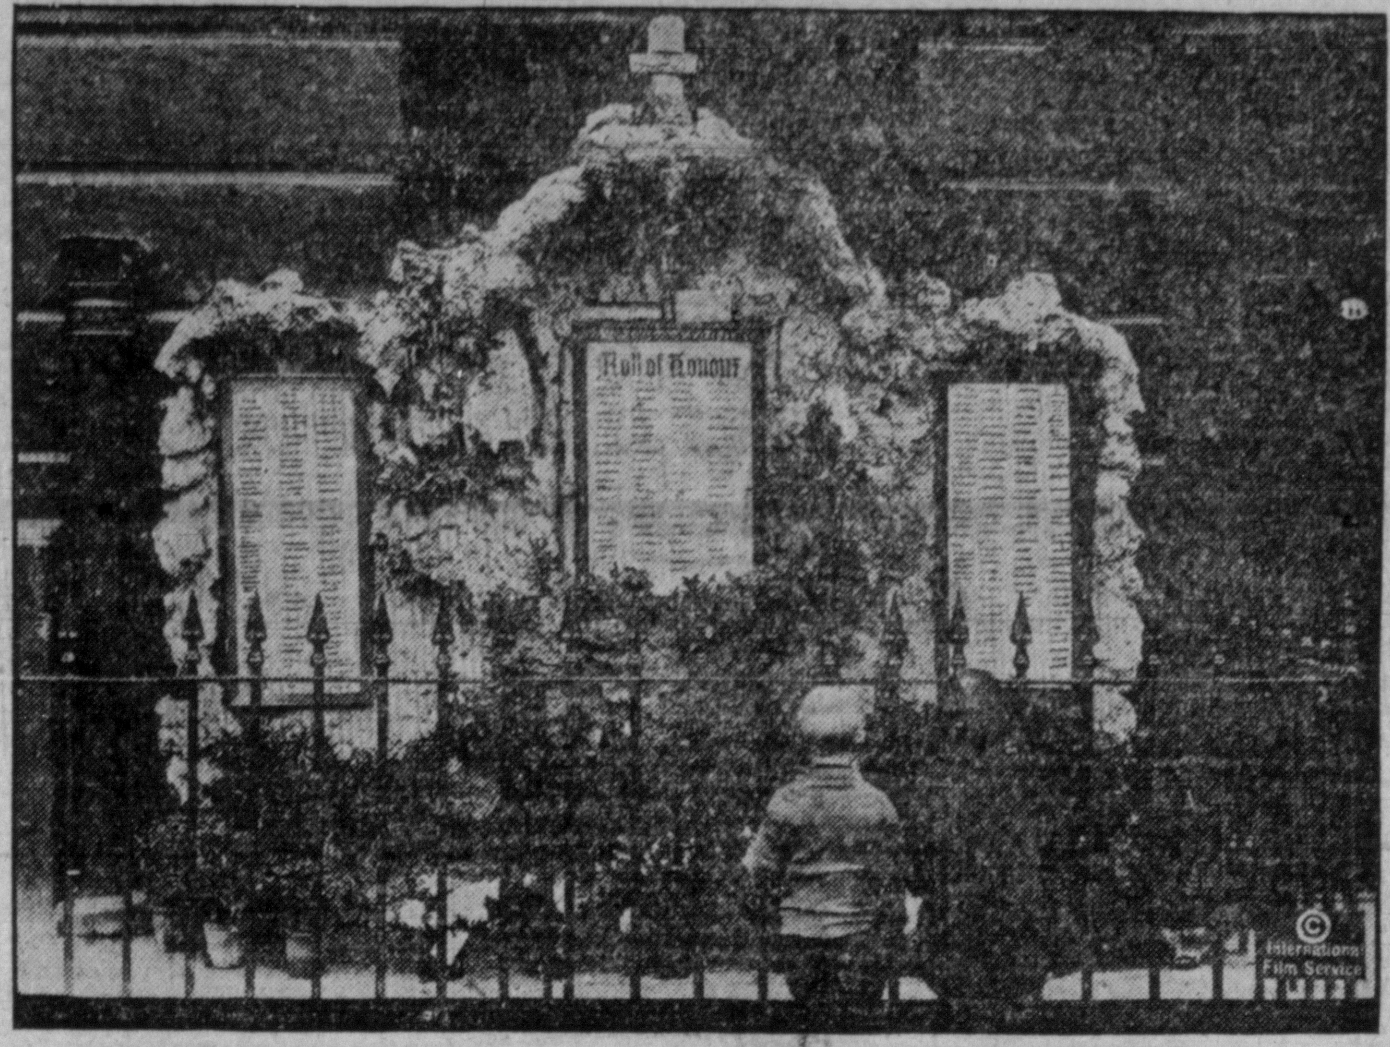

The merciless welding of the pruning knife by the steering committee trying to avoid an extra session has started a storm of protest brewing and friends of side tracked measures were whetting up their cutlasses today for action if the caucus ratifies the close cropped program drafted by the steering committee. Some of the democratic leaders declared that at the present rate it would be impossible even to complete the regular appropriation bills.

With the president's anti-strike proposal again voted down in committee, the fate of the rest of the railroad program before the senate interstate commerce committee was still in doubt today. The committee was struggling to arrive upon a compromise that would satisfy both the demands of the president and organized labor and still meet the danger of a general strike. This phase of the legislation situation furnishes the biggest reason for an extra session.

BONAR LAW'S SPEECH IS ENTENTE ANSWER

Other Steps Than Those Outlined by Wilson Are Necessary, He Says.

(International News Service.)
London, Jan. 25.—A. Bonar Law's speech at Bristol last night was generally hailed today as Great Britain's answer to President Wilson's world peace outline.

The press and public echoed a general satisfaction with the chancellor's address.

Mr. Law left no doubt that the President's effort will receive serious consideration by the directors of the allied efforts.

"President Wilson's speech has this aim—to gain now and secure peace for the future," said the chancellor. "That is our aim, our only aim. It would not be right to regard this proposal as something altogether Utopian."

But the chancellor continued: "In view of the manner in which Germany has conducted the war, and that neutral let German aggressions go without protest, other steps than those outlined by President Wilson are necessary before there can be any real world peace or ending of the present war."

Deutschland Expected on Kaisers Birthday

(International News Service.)

New London, Jan. 25.—Saturday, Jan. 27, is the date upon which the German merchant submarine Deutschland now is expected to arrive here, it was learned today.

Officers and members of the crew of the interned German vessel Willehad, which acted as a mother ship for the submarine on her last trip, were today denied extended shore leave. The crew of the ship has been busy for some time arranging for the docking of the undersea freighter.

On his last trip here Captain Koenig of the Deutschland said he expected to celebrate the Kaiser's birthday in New London. That day falls on Saturday.

BELIEVE RAIDER ONCE WAS LINER

REPORTS CLAIM VESSEL WAS FORMERLY CAP ORTEGA, 7,818 TONS.

(International News Service.)

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 25.—Reports reaching here today from Montevideo stated that the mysterious German raider which wrought havoc among allied shipping has been established as the Cap Ortega, a Hamburg-American liner which was engaged in trans-Atlantic trade before the war.

No authority was given for the belief that the vessel is the aCp Ortega, whose whereabouts has been unknown since the beginning of the war. (Note: The Cap Ortega is a twin-screw vessel of 7,818 tons.)

Both Sides of Paper Used: High Cost

Both sides of the paper are being used by the students in the Albany public schools who are taking the regular semi-annual examinations this week.

STORM IN SENATE FAILS TO DEVELOP

SENATOR CUMMINS DOES NOT CALL UP RESOLUTION ON FREE DISCUSSION.

(International News Service.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—The threatened storm in the senate over the president's peace address failed to break today.

Senator Cummins did not call up his resolution proposing a free discussion of the president's speech. A motion will probably be made tomorrow to take up the resolution.

PRESIDENT MAY GO BEFORE THE PEOPLE IN SUPPORT OF HIS NEW PEACE LEAGUE

PRESIDENT STILL HAS UNDER CONSIDERATION A STUMPING TOUR SIMILAR TO THAT OF PREPAREDNESS CAMPAIGN.

ADMINISTRATION TO EXPLAIN

"PEACE WITHOUT VICTORY" STATEMENT IS STUMBLING BLOCK THAT MAKES ALLIES WARY OF SUPPORTING THE EXECUTIVE'S LATEST MOVE.

(International News Service.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—The administration must explain some points in the president's speech in the senate last Monday.

The entente powers cannot consider a plan for the restoration of peace under the present understanding of the assertion that the conclusion of the present war must be "peace without victory." That is the almost unanimous interpretation by Washington officialdom of the statement yesterday of the British chancellor, A. Bonar Law.

The administration is frankly pleased with the reception of the second great step toward peace. It was pointed out today that the president's proposal was received in Great Britain without any of the taint of suspicion that attached to his initial move to end the war.

There is now little question of the approval of the plan by the central powers. At present officials here are puzzled to know just how far the president intends to go, and are unable to determine whether his statement of "peace without victory" is to be read as a prophecy or as outlining the goal for which the United States will strive in connection with the administration's peace effort.

Meanwhile diplomatic and official Washington is awaiting eagerly the action of the senate.

The president still has under consideration the project of touring the country in support of his plan, as he did when preparedness was the big issue. The president then laid aside all else to bend all of his efforts toward converting the balance of the

MAY INCREASE PROPOSED ARMOR PLANT

Hadfields & Co. Had Obtained Official Sanction to Submit Bids and Failure to Deliver Causes Much Surprise at Washington

(International News Service.)
Washington, Jan. 25.—Refusal by the British government to permit Radfields & Co., Ltd., of Sheffield, England, to deliver armor projectiles to the United States has emphasized the bitterness already existing between the navy department and the steel manufacturers of the United States. Secretary Daniels said today that he was investigating the reasons behind the British government's action. Before he accepted the bid from the British concern the secretary said that he had been assured by it that it had full permission from the British authorities to bid.

Officials see in the action of the British government the power with the British government of the armor manufacturers of the United States. Secretary Daniels is expected to have the government manufacture its own shells. He will, if possible, increase the proposed armor manufacturing plant of the United States to include a forging department.

BERLIN MESSAGE IS SURPRISE SPRUNG NOT RECEIVED YET BY THE GERMANS

SECRETARY LANSING SAYS HE HAS NOT BEEN INFORMED OF SENDING.

(International News Service.)

Washington, Jan. 25.—The state department today had not received the message reported to have been sent from Berlin by Ambassador Gerard following a conference yesterday with the imperial chancellor. Secretary Lansing said that he had received no confirmation that such a message was en route and that he had had no word from the ambassador.

Officials here are at a loss to know what the message is about and refused to forecast a guess on its importance.

Asa McConnell and Isiah Swope, negroes, are in the Decatur jail held in connection with the robbery of a Southern railway car on the siding just below the freight depot last night. A large amount of stolen property was recovered by the Decatur police and turned over to the railroad. The prisoners are held awaiting the arrival of the Southern's special officer who is expected here this afternoon. The goods were recovered in the back yard of a little store on West

Vine street, the officers reported this morning. Eight sacks of flour, two sacks of meal, two cans of lard, two boxes of sausage, two boxes of cheese and one sack of oatmeal were recovered by Officers Riggsbey and Halbrooks. The robbery is thought to have occurred early in the evening and the arrest and recovery of the property was effected shortly after midnight. The Decatur police are being congratulated today on their rapid work.

PIGS AND SENTIMENT.

J. Ogden Armour, founder of the great packing house, is quoted in the current issue of a popular magazine as deploring the lack of sentiment in American business. The opinion of the great Chicago millionaire is given in connection with the pensioning of a tubercular employee who had been with the firm only eighteen months. His earnings at the time he was rendered helpless by the white plague were only $25 per week, but for thirteen years his salary continued uninterrupted while the invalid wandered among western sanitariums in a vain search for health. Childed by an efficiency expert of the modern American school, Mr. Armour replied in effect that life without sentiment is stale and profitless business at best.

We confess to a feeling of surprise when we read the incident in the sketch of "J. O." If there are any class of men we would have instinctively isolated from any sentimental feelings, it would be the Chicago packers. The only touch of sentiment ever applied, so far as we can remember, to pigs and hides and cattle hooks, is when the proud little mother relates to her new progeny the time honored story of the five little pigs that went to market, illustrating the weather-beaten tale with the five toes of the little one's feet—the big pig, the middle sized pig, and the little pig, the little middle size pig and the teeny-weeny pig that got none, and shed porcine tears over the catastrophe. Or maybe we have connected pigs with sentiment when, in the last act, the aged mother finds she had made enough profits off her porkers (all salted away in the Old and First National Bank—under the third brick from the end of the big hearth) to pay off the mortgage on the old home place and thus foil the villain who has threatened in the third act to foreclose. Shades of Denman Thompson!

But, to return from these pleasant fields of fancy, we believe Mr. Armour is right and we congratulate him on his temerity to raise this lone voice in defense of sentiment in his desert of commercialism. Sentiment is a very necessary adjunct to any man and many men possess it who would deride any imputation to this effect. "J. O." would probably blush if he were charged with believing in the sentiment of the mid-Victorian period, but there is a species of sentiment even in these commercial days that any man might be proud to have. It is the kind that makes the modern business man spurn to take part in enterprise where his syndicate would profit and unexperienced women, for instance, would suffer loss. It is the kind of sentiment that makes men succor the weak and defenseless. It is the kind of sentiment that makes men revere those who are near and dear to them. We confess to a feeling of envy for the man whose well of tears can be tapped by a pathetic incident; there is something mighty like solid gold in that man. Blessed be the man whose sentiment will allow him to soften the hard road of today by the pleasant thoughts of the glad days of yesteryear! Blessed is the man whose sentiment is so strong that he, having hitched his wagon to a star, can follow its gleam over hill and dale until he has reached the summit of the mountain. That man is a happy man even if he never reaches the goal of his ambitions.

Sentiment? "J. O." you're right. It's the golden elixir of life! A plague on him who has none of it.

Albany residents continue to get their mail from the New Decatur postoffice. Where is the "Old Guard" that once fought so valiantly for the change of name? Are any of them now blocking the game at the expense of the city's growth and development?

BONAR LAW ADMITS VALUE OF WILSON IDEA.

Although it was to be expected that Great Britain as the dominating force of the entente would be slow to accept President Wilson's plan of a league to bring and enforce peace, it was hardly to be hoped that so distinguished a war lord as A. Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, would make the frank admission that he did in an address last night.

Mr. Law is quoted as saying:

President Wilson's speech had this aim—to gain peace now and secure peace for the future. That is our aim, and our only aim. We hoped to secure this by a league of peace, and he not only spoke in favor of such a league, but he is trying to induce the American senate to take the steps necessary to give effect to it. It would not be right to regard this proposal as something altogether Utopian.

You know that almost up to our own day duelling continued, and just as the settling of private disputes by the sword has now become unthinkable, so, I think we may hope that the time will come when all the nations of the world will play the part which Cromwell described as his: "He work—to act as constable, and keep peace. That time will come, I hope."

But this whole subject is not an abstract question for the future. It is a question of life and death now. In judging whether that result can be secured by this his method, it is impossible for us to forget the past. For generations humane men, men of good will among all nations, have striven by The Hague convention, by peace conferences and by all other means to make war impossible, or at least to mitigate the horrors of war. When war comes, by what means can these barriers, built up against barbarism, be made effective? They cannot be preserved by the belligerents, if any of them choose to ignore them. It is only from neutral states that effective sanction can be given to them.

If A. Bonar Law represents the best thought of the British war council, it is evident that he and President Wilson agree in all things except the effectiveness of peace promises. Wilson is a man of faith with a larger vision into the future; Law is a skeptic who looks only at the past. Wilson can see in the terrible destructiveness of new weapons and in changing universal sentiment guarantees for a better order of things; Law looks over his shoulder and glimpses only perfidy and broken covenants. Wilson realizes that science has imposed upon mankind the duty of preserving peace in order to forestall the destruction of the race; Law realizes only that the overthrow of Germany at this time would assure the commercial supremacy of England for the immediate future.

Is it not strange that British newspapers and even such red-blooded American sheets as the Louisville Courier-Journal can see in the president's proposal nothing but an "Utopian dream." What is there about movements for the advancement of civilization that subject them to this damning accusation of being "Utopian?" Is it "Utopian" to be practical? It is "Utopian" to ask a Christian world to live up to the obligations that it would impose? Would it be "Utopian" for all the nations of the world to form a league for the enforcement of peace; a league that would restrain one or two intemperate members whose cholera had been aroused; a league that would direct human energies to higher and better purposes; a league that would disarm millions of men who should be employed in beneficial avocations; a league that would hold the balances of justice so firmly that smaller nations would be given equal protection with larger ones?

The world admits the delights of "Utopia." It differs only in the methods by which they may be attained. The modern way is the Wilson Way.

COTTON MILLS "HOMEMADE"

More Than 90 Per Cent of Textile Machines in American Plants Manufactured in This Country.

Practically all of the equipment of the cotton mills of the United States is "homemade," says Uncle Sam. More than 90 per cent of the cotton spinning machinery now installed in American plants is of American manufacture. There was a time when American mills were almost wholly dependent upon foreign manufacturers for machinery but these conditions have changed in recent years.

The rapid decrease in imports of cotton-spinning machinery since 1909 shows what great changes have been taking place in this industry. The number of cotton-textile machines imported at New York, Boston and Philadelphia decreased from 1,132 in 1909 to 275 in 1914.

Just In Passing

GEN. WHEELER'S BRAVERY.

"The modern general directs his forces by telegraph and from many miles in the rear, but this was not true of Joe Wheeler, Gen. Forrest, and many of the other leaders of the civil war," said Maj. T. J. Williamson, who rode with Wheeler's "cavalry" throughout the war. "Time and again I have seen the personal courage of General Wheeler shown. On one occasion, when campaigning in Tennessee, my company was sent forward to support a battery. We were lying low to the ground, in front of our guns, but out of range of the shells that were flying thick and fast. Our battery was exchanging a hot fire with a federal battery that crowned a nearby hill. In the thick of the cannonade, General Wheeler mounted on his splendid charger, rode up and down our lines, within direct range of the cannon balls, talking to his men and telling that this was an important position and must be held. It didn't seem possible for the flying shrapnel to miss him, yet he never appeared to even notice that an artillery fire was being carried on. In battle he was always thus—totally oblivious to danger and apparently without physical fear."

STUDENT SLIGHTLY MIXED.

"It is amusing some of the mistakes that pupils, in the excitement of taking examinations, sometimes make," said Mrs. W. F. Jones. "The Albany students are busy with their exams now. One of them, in one of the higher grades, too, was given the question: 'Give the plural of the following words—salmon, ox, deer.' The student got comparisons mixed in the question and handed in the following answer: 'Salmon, more salmon, most salmon; ox, more ox, most ox; deer, deerer, deerest. Another one in a lower grade was asked where oysters come from. The student replied: 'From trees that grow along the river banks.'"

ALBANY'S THREE PAPERS.

"There are now three newspapers entered at the New Decatur postoffice—a daily, a weekly and a monthly," said Postmaster Claude McMillan. "The latest of the trio is 'Ballet's Farmer,' published by Hugh Ballet, which has made application for entry to the mails, the first issue having been sent out this week. This little periodical is devoted to the interest of better farming, and starts off with a very good subscription list."

RIBBON DEMONSTRATION.

"The correct way to demonstrate the constructive quality of a type-writer ribbon—not the kind they wear on their hair—is with a magnifying glass," said Bruce Armstrong, traveling salesman. "Throw a strong glass on two ribbons which to the naked eye look pretty much the same, and you may find one of them may carry many more fine threads to the inch than the other. It's a test that can't fail, so far as the weave and material used is concerned."

BUT HE BAGGED THE RABBIT

Hunter Almost Got Pedestrian at the Time That He Secured His Small Prey.

"Hey there; excuse me, I didn't see you until after I pulled the trigger, but I guess you are not hurt much," came an excited voice from some brush at the side of the track and at the same time the hunter emerged. James Jones, young man, to whom the apology was extended, began an inventory of his person to see whether he was shot, and he found that he was only slightly wounded.

Jones was walking peacefully along the switch track of the Pennsylvania lines, near Hartford City, leading through a clump of brush. He was startled when a rabbit jumped out in front of him, fairly on his feet. At the same time there was a report of firearms—and bunny turned his back upward while Jones fell over backward.

"I had been following that rabbit for some distance and I was bound that I was going to get him—and I did," said the hunter. "But say, old man, I'm sorry if you're hurt. I didn't see you at all until after I pulled the trigger."—Indianapolis News.

Precocious Infant.

Two proud fathers of babies about the same age were having a bounding contest in the city train the other morning.

"Can your baby talk yet?" Jones asked.

"No not much," Brown admitted. "Can yours?"

"Oh, yes; talks like anything," Jones replied, confidently. "Yours is walking about now, I suppose?"

"No, he hasn't begun to walk yet," said Brown.

"Not yet?" Jones exclaimed. "Why, he's older than mine, and mine is toddling about."

Brown was beginning to get exasperated. "By the way," he asked casually, "does yours use a safety razor or one of the ordinary ones?"—New York Globe.

JUST LIKE A WOMAN.

"Talk about your frenzied financiers," remarked the cashier, as he came in and hung up his hat, "my wife's got them all beaten to a frazzled fizzle."

"Well, come on with the answer," said the bookkeeper.

"She had made up her mind to purchase a skirt she saw in a store just around the corner from where we live," explained the cashier; "but yesterday she learned that she could buy one exactly like it downtown for fifty cents less."

"And of course she went downtown and bought it," interrupted the bookkeeper.

"You have said it," rejoined the cashier, "and incidentally she spent a dollar and a half taxicab hire while looking for the place."

Sad Case.

"I certainly do feel sorry for Mrs. Doppel."

"Why so?"

"She patronizes Mrs. Dubson whenever she gets a chance, but Mrs. Dubson is blissfully unconscious of it, so it's no satisfaction to her at all."

NOT A PATRIOT.

An Unexpected Retort.

"Where," demanded the female suffrage orator in a fierce tone, "would man be today were it not for woman?"

She paused for a moment, and glared at the silent audience.

"Once more I repeat," she came back, "where would man be were it not for woman?"

Then from the gallery in a timid masculine voice, came this answer:

"He'd be in the garden of Eden eating strawberries."

The Modern Way.

"Say," said the theatrical manager to the chap who writes between meals, "do you want a job?"

"What kind of a job?" queried the play manufacturer.

"I bought a job lot of scenery at an auction sale today," explained the t. m., "and I want you to write a play to fit it. See?"

Still Hopeful.

"A girl should think twice before saying 'yes' when a man proposes."

"Most girls do," replied the cynic.

"Even a mature spinster on the shady side of thirty likes to think some other man wants to marry her while she is listening to positively the last proposal she'll ever receive."

Soldier Use Umbrella?

Well, This One Didn't.

Come to think of it, now, did you ever see one of Uncle Sam's soldiers in uniform carrying an umbrella?

Residents of a certain street in Brooklyn caught a glimpse of a marine recruit carrying a "bumbershoot" during a recent rainstorm, but it was only a glimpse. Two older marines met the recruit, took the umbrella from him, and broke it up, paying not the slightest heed to his plea that he had purchased the thing just ten minutes before. Then the older marines gave the recruit a lecture on military proprieties.

There is no service regulation against the carrying of umbrellas by uniformed men, but there is an unwritten law of the Marine Corps which classifies the umbrella as a piece of feminine finery and its use is taboo with old heads who know the ropes.

"BIKE" COMES INTO ITS OWN

Production Shows Big Gain in Recent Years—Motorcycle Output Also Takes Big Jump.

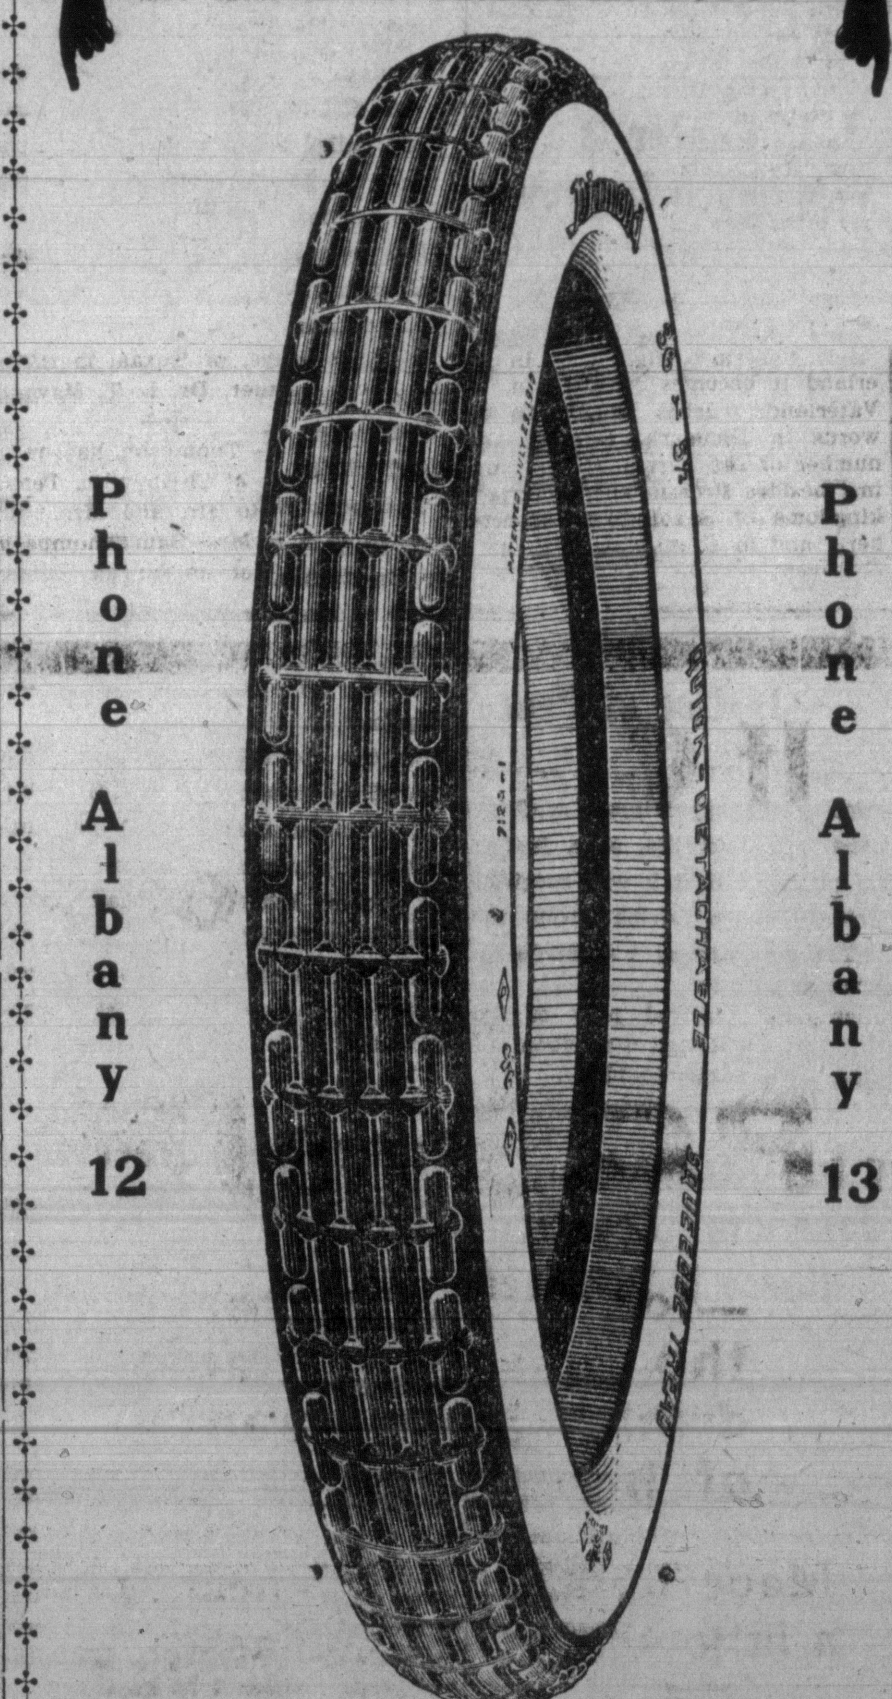

The bicycle has come into its own again, according to Uncle Sam. Director Sam L. Rogers of the bureau of census has issued a report showing that the output of bicycles in the United States increased 70.7 per cent in number and 66.1 per cent in value from 1909 to 1914. In 1909 233,770 bicycles, valued at $3,225,189 were produced. In 1914 the production reached 398,899 bicycles, with a value of $5,381,229.

At the same time the production of motorcycles increased in still greater proportions. In 1909 only 18,628 motorcycles were produced, having a value of $3,015,988, while in 1914, the output had increased to 62,793 motorcycles, valued at $12,306,447. This represents an increase of 237.1 per cent in number and 208 per cent in value.

Stimulus of Flowers.

If you have not some growing plants in your living rooms put them in. They tone up a home, give it a kindly temper, inspire a love of nature and cultivate a taste for the beautiful. But more than this—they have a practical value. They create conditions of health. If they flourish, then you have sweeter and purer air to breathe. They take in bad air and give out good. So the family flourishes if the plants flourish. Each plays into the other's hands. But the great thing is in keeping company with nature, which is the finest association that comes into one's self. It is the stimulus of peace, joy, kindness and justice. The angels love a home with growing plants and flowers in it.

HOW TO TREAT CONVULSIONS

Hot Bath the First Thing to Be Administered to Child Who Suffers From That Complaint.

When a baby has convulsions, it generally means one of two things; either it is suffering from toxemia, or poisoning, which is usually the result of errors in the diet, or else there is some serious trouble with the nervous system. If feeding is at the bottom of the trouble, find out the error and correct it, and the attacks will cease. When there is organic trouble present, the case is more serious. The attack may be stopped, but it is likely to recur if the underlying cause persists. Such are the convulsions caused by meningitis, or acute inflammation of the brain coverings, and by hydrocephalus, or water pressing on the brain.

It is unnecessary to describe the symptoms, for the most inexperienced person knows when a baby is having a convulsion. In older people a tendency to convulsions indicates an unstable nervous system, and that is probably true of infants who have convulsions in consequence of dietary errors that would leave stronger children unaffected. Children who have convulsions in their first year often suffer from night terrors, tics, and other signs of nervous instability later in life. Sometimes convulsions are the first signs of an epilepsy that is to appear in after years.

The first thing to do when a baby falls into a convulsion is to get it into a warm bath as quickly as possible. That is done to relieve blood tension and equalize the circulation, and to this end it is well to give cold applications to the head at the same time.

Do not hesitate to give the hot bath. Sometimes inexperienced people who dread to make a mistake insist on waiting until the doctor comes. But the hot bath for a baby in convulsions can never be a mistake. The doctor should be called without delay, because in severe cases the bath must be followed by sedative and relieving treatment that he only will know how to employ. There is one important "don't" to remember—don't put anything into the child's mouth—either food, medicine or stimulant—while you are waiting for the doctor—Youth's Companion.

TEN FOLD AND TIN FOILS

Little Maiden Put Her Own Interpretation on Words She Supposed She Had Heard.

Little Anne, who is just old enough to be proud of her ability to read small words and spell out large ones, accompanied her mother to the neighborhood "movie" one evening recently. During the progress of the picture the little girl heroine hands over her hard-earned savings to the old man who has befriended her and who needs just a little money to put them both in the way to a comfortable living. The old man takes the money and says:

"I will be able to return this ten fold."

After the lines disappeared from the screen little Anne said:

"Mother, what are they going to do with the tin foil?"—Indianapolis News.

Sang in Many Countries.

The air of "God Save the King" and "Hell Dir im Sieger Kranz" also figured in the national or patriotic songs of many other countries. In the United States it was adopted by Samuel S. Smith for his famous song, beginning "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." This was first sung in Boston in 1832, and has often been called the national anthem of the republic, although that honor is now more generally accorded to "The Star Spangled Banner."

In Bavaria the same air is used to "Heil! unserm König, Heil!" In Switzerland it becomes "Rufst du, mein Vaterland." It is sung with other words in Denmark, Norway and a number of the German states, including, besides Prussia and Bavaria, the kingdoms of Saxony and Württemberg, and in Brunswick, Weimar and Hanover.

Always With Good Companions.

We know a man who always carries in his pocket a book written by Emerson, Marcus Aurelius, Carlyle or some other giant intellect who in times past scattered broadcast the blossoms of his thought that future generations might inhale their fragrance. In this age of hurry and feverish achievement, when men seem to have little time for sober reflection, it is good to be able to summon, at will, such blessed companions to one's presence.—Los Angeles Times.

WHERE MUSIC IS SUPREME

Elevated Above the Other Arts Because It is the Most Detached of Them All.

The strength of every art lies chiefly in the completeness of its detachment from reality. Sculpture does not gain by being realistic, picturesque, or decorative; on the contrary it is at its highest when it is ideal, detached and superhuman. Painting does not gain by being categorical, but is greatest when it seeks something beyond the outward, physical view. The novel or the essay depends for its greatness on its power of relating real persons, things, and ideas to that greater and deeper reality of which they are a part. In this sense music stands supreme above the other arts because it is the most detached. The elements of thought and feeling and action are, in music, presented as elements. The thought is not thought even in the abstract, for it is not "about" anything; the feeling is not actual feeling and the action is not real action. Each of these properties, or states, of the human beings is here expressed in its essence, detached from all actual manifestation. None but the highest type of mind, none but a heart full of deep human sympathy, none but a vigorous, militant spirit, could have conceived and brought forth such compositions, for example, as the third and ninth symphonies of Beethoven; yet they are nothing but sound—neither the intelligence, nor the feeling, nor the action, is real.—Thomas W. Surette, in the Atlantic.

URGES AN ADEQUATE ARMY

Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, U. S. army, held the attention of the house committee on military affairs for several days in his testimony as to the inadequacy of the present national military system. He not only declared his belief in the necessity of a universal military system, but announced that the general staff is preparing a bill to be submitted. General Scott is emphatic in his statement that federalization of the National Guard will not meet the country's military needs.

Lemolac Sells On Its Merits

Lemolac is not a cure-all patent medicine but a guaranteed substitute for Calomel. People who try it continue to buy it, because it is a medicine of merit. Many so-called liver medicines act only on the lower bowels. Lemolac is preferable to Calomel because it does not salivate, sicken and weaken. You don't have to take a day off when you take Lemolac. It is pleasant tasting, but its effects are even more pleasant, as it acts gently but surely on your liver. Try a bottle at our risk; you money pleasantly refunded if it does not please you, as Lemolac is sold at its merits. Owl Drug Co. and Thompson Drug Store.

2 Drops Make Corn "Fall" Off!

"I've joined the Never-Again Club. Never again will I use anything for corns but Gets-It. Put 2 drops of 'Gets-It' on, and from that second the corn begins to shrivel.

"Oh, Don't Touch It! It's So Sore!" "Use 'Gets-It' and It Will Never Be Sore!"

Instead of swelling up like a little white sponge. Then it loosens from your toe—and, glory hallelujah! the corn comes off as though you'd take a glove off your hand!

Yes, "Gets-It" is the corn discovery of the age. More "Gets-It" is sold by many times than any other corn remedy in existence. Try it and you'll know the reason why. It takes two seconds to apply it, and it dries at once. That's all. Don't experiment—follow the experience of millions and use "Gets-It."

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere. No a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in New Decatur and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Preuit-Dillehay Drug Co. and Thompson Drug Store.

Had Terrible Pains in Kidneys and Back.

Dear Mr. Editor—I want to write you about "Anuric." I was very sick, could hardly be up; I was in bed most of the time. Had terrible pains in my kidneys and back, so much so that I had to scream sometimes when I was sitting down and wanted to get up, the pain was so great. I had tried a well-known kidney medicine but it didn't help me. I heard of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets so I thought I would try them. I took only one box of the Tablets, and my back is now free from pain and I can work and take care of my family. I feel I cannot say enough for this medicine. Sincerely, Mrs. Wm. KELLER.

Note: This "Anuric" is adapted especially for kidney complaints and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine and urinary troubles. The physicians and specialists at Dr. Pierce's great Institution, at Buffalo, N. Y., have thoroughly tested this prescription and have been with one accord successful in eradicating these troubles, and in most cases absolutely curing the diseased kidneys. Patients having once used "Anuric" at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, have repeatedly sent back for more. Such a demand has been created that Dr. Pierce has decided to put "Anuric" in the drug stores of this country, in a ready-to-use form. If not obtainable send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood cleanser and alternative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists the body to make rich, red blood, which feeds the heart, nerves, brain and organs of the body. You feel clean, strong and strenuous.

Tricks in All Trades.

"Have you ever had any experience in handling high-class wares?" asked a dealer in bric-a-brac of an applicant for work.

"No, sir," was the reply, "but I think I can do it."

"Suppose," said the dealer, "you accidentally broke a very valuable porcelain vase, what would you do?"

"I should put it carefully together," replied the man, "and set it where a wealthy customer would be sure to knock it over again."

"Consider yourself engaged," said the dealer. "Now, tell me where you learned that trick of the trade."

"A few years ago," answered the other, "I was one of the 'wealthy customer' class."—Tit-Bits.

It is expected that the president will spend part of today at the capitol close touch with the situation in the senate. Meanwhile, it was learned that regardless of the action of the senate, the president will not be checked.

SWISS ARE DIVIDED IN OPINION, PRESS INDICATES

Berne, Jan. 25.—There is a sharp division of opinion in Switzerland over President Wilson's world peace address, as reflected in the comment of the newspapers.

The Journal De Geneve frankly states that the president's peace effort has failed. It admits the generous and exalted spirit of the senate address, but considers it ill timed. The Neue Zurich Zeitung says none of the governments can ignore the speech.

CHAPLAIN PRAISES FALLEN OFFICER

REV. N. A. JONES WRITES OF FINAL HOURS OF LIEUTENANT SHIRLEY TISDALE.

Mrs. Shirley Tisdale has received a letter from Rev. N. A. Jones, chaplain of the Fourth Alabama Infantry, in which he speaks in praise of the fallen officer, who died at Nogales, and gives an account of his final hours. The letter follows:

Fourth Ala. Inf. Camp Stephen A. Little, Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 11. Mrs. Shirley A. Tisdale, Decatur, Alabama.

Dear Mrs. Tisdale:—I want to express my tenderest sympathy for you and the little girls in this dark and sad hour of bereavement. I was at the bedside of your dear husband, Lieut. Tisdale, when his spirit took flight to the Realm Above. I have myself been sick for ten days, but was able this morning to make the trip to the base hospital when I was notified that his condition had taken a turn for the worse. I reached his bedside shortly before the sad end, and he made no statement to me; but nearly a month ago, he requested of me that if he died on the border, he wanted some one to escort his body home, and I saw the commanding officer of the regiment and had this arrangement attended to.

I was with him often. He was a member of my church—the Christian church—and this caused a very warm and cordial relation to exist between us. We often discussed religious subjects in my tent or when I would visit him. He was a good man indeed. The one thing that impressed me very much was the unflinching loyalty to you and his immeasurable love for his children. His conduct was always the best and his life was a noble example to all others who knew him.

Would to God there were something that I could say that would bring you real consolation; but all I can do is to point you to Him who presides over the destinies of men, and who alone can bind up the broken heart and give lasting peace and consolation.

Lieutenant Tisdale was held in very high esteem both by the officers and the enlisted men. He was one of the best known and best liked officers in the regiment. I wish you really knew how fully and genuinely the entire regiment, and even the entire brigade, enters into your grief and shares your burden of sorrow with you.

With a fervent prayer that the Everlasting Father, who knows what is best for his children, and who always hears their prayers and grants their petitions, may give you peace and bind up your broken heart and help you to bear the heavy burden of grief, I am yours,

Very respectfully,

N. A. JONES,

Chaplain 4th Ala. Infantry. Mrs. Tisdale stated today that she desired to express her appreciation of the floral offering from the West Side Presbyterian church and Sunday school, which was not mentioned in a previous published list.

TRULY A WONDERFUL SOIL

Remarkable Things That Are Credited to Ground of the Great State of Nebraska.

The soil in the little valley among the Brown county hills is admittedly rich in productivity, but it is as arid as the Sahara desert when compared with the soil of Nebraska. If one man's testimony may be believed.

A former Brown county farmer, now living in Nebraska, was asked as to the productiveness of the soil on his new farm.

"Never saw anything like it," was the reply. "A neighbor has to mow the grass of his sodhouse floor every day to find the baby, the grass grows so tall in the night."

"Pretty tall yarn, that," was the response.

"Oh, that's nothing! There is a family living near me that has twin babies with a cradle for only a single baby. The kid that has to sleep on the floor grows twice as fast as the other."

"Your live stock must be wonderful," was the comment.

"It is," said the Nebraskan, "but, strange to say, the soil seems to have more effect on human beings. Where the soil is richest a man does not dare stand on one foot any length of time, lest the foot on the ground grow longer than the other foot. Fact, sir."—Indianapolis News.

'LOONEY' MEANS 'MOONEY'

Primitive People Have Habit of Carrying an Umbrella at Night to Keep From Getting It.

When John Armstrong Chaloner escaped from a New York insane asylum and telegraphed his relatives the pertinent question: "Who's looney now?" he merely gave currency to a word and connotation that are much older than our language. "Luna" is the Latin word for moon, and "looney," which is derived from "luna," has been attributed to the baneful effect of the moon's rays since very early times. Just as night air is thought by primitive people to cause ill health, so the light of the moon is believed to derange the mind. A strict definition of the word "lunatic" is "moon-struck."

In some Latin-American countries, notably Haiti, the natives often may be seen carrying umbrellas about with them at night, during the light of the moon, to safeguard their mentality. The Romans had a goddess called Luna. There is a good English word, "lunabulism," which means "somanbulism attributed to the influence of the moon." So "looney" only means "mooney," another way of saying "bereft of reason on account of exposure to light rays reflected from the sun by a dead satellite," if you insist upon exactness.

Subsidizing the Poet.

We seem to be as much at sea in this matter as they were about 120 A. D., when the critic cursed the town for keeping alive so many poets and cursed it again for starving so many of them; wanted to know how a man could behold the horses of the chariot of the sun if he had to grub for a living, and wanted to drive most poets back to grubbing for a living as soon as he observed their manner of beholding the horses of the chariot of the sun; said you ought to fatten poets to make them sing, and became violently angry the moment a fat poet began singing; blamed a rich man for feeding a pet lion instead of subsidizing some author at much less expense, and was all for feeding the author to the lion on reading what he wrote. He wanted authors protected, but the literary choices made by the protector almost drove him mad.—New Republic.

For Invalids.

A raw egg is one of the most nutritious of foods, and may be taken easily if the yolk is not broken. A little nutmeg grated upon the egg, a few drops of lemon juice added, some chopped parsley sprinkled over it, or some salt and a dash of cayenne pepper will vary the flavor and make it more palatable when taken as a medicine. In case of intestinal troubles, a partly beaten raw egg, taken at one swallow, is recommended. It is healing to the inflamed stomach and intestines and relieves the feeling of distress. Doctors say that four eggs taken in this manner in 24 hours will furnish the best kind of nourishment as well as medicine for the patient.

Temple to Goddess of Childbirth.

One of the most important archaeological discoveries of recent years has just been made at Gonnol, near the vale of Temple in Thessaly. The Archaeological society has just unearthed what is plainly a sanctuary to the Goddess Artemis and among the articles found on the spot are some of the most remarkable votive offerings yet discovered. One hundred thirty-eight marble shafts have inscriptions from which it is plain that the shrine was devoted to Artemis as a goddess of childbirth, "Artemis genitrix."
